

Support Your Child's Teacher & Build a Strong CPSC— Become a Class Parent!

If you're organized, have great communication skills and can volunteer for an average of three hours per month, consider becoming a Class Parent. It's a great way to be involved in your child's class and builds parent participation in Central Park School for Children.

What does a Class Parent do?

Class Parents ensure that teachers and CPSC receive the volunteer help needed from parents throughout the year. Each class needs two class parents, along with a Strawberry Festival parent. Class Parents will be supported by two school-wide Class Parent Coordinators.

Class Parent #1 provides in-class support such as:

- Meeting with the teacher in the first few weeks of school to determine what volunteer support is needed;
- Serving as the volunteer coordinator for the classroom;
- Organizing and distributing the early dismissal phone tree;
- Organizing teacher and staff appreciation gifts or activities.

Class Parent #2 provides school-wide support such as:

- Reinforcing communication from school committees and administration regarding critical dates, upcoming events, etc.;
- Recruiting volunteers for school-wide activities such book fairs, playground duty, and the quarterly Teacher Appreciation Luncheon.

The two Class Parents will collaborate with one another and may choose to divide up responsibilities in the way that works best for them)*

How can I learn more about being a Class Parent? There is a more in depth explanation in the CPSC Parent Handbook in the section titled "Working Together."

Yes! I would like to become a Class Parent. (An orientation will be held in late July.)
